“Journal of Road Engineering Association of Asia and Australasia (JREAAA) 1/2026”

INTRODUCTION

As an expert in road engineering, the committee of the Journal of Road Engineering Association of Asia and Australasia (JREAAA) welcomes you to submit your articles to the subsequent edition of this e-journal.

This e-journal endeavors to establish an academic forum dedicated to the dissemination, exchange, and discourse of cutting-edge research findings for academicians, researchers, scientists, practitioners, and policymakers.

The primary goal of JREAAA is to foster and advance the science and practice of road engineering and related professions. It also aims to educate and work towards the enhancement, expansion, and elevation of the technical and general knowledge of individuals engaged in road engineering.

In this edition, special emphasis is given to critical and timely themes within the field — namely Road Safety, Climate Change, and Pavement Technology. These areas represent pressing global challenges and opportunities, where innovative research and collaborative efforts are essential to shaping sustainable, resilient, and efficient road infrastructure for the future.
